

Workplace Redesign

Why is Workplace being redesigned?

The new Workplace web experience emphasizes team communication and collaboration. It reduces noise and cleans up clutter by making it easier for you to focus your attention on the content that matters.

What's changing?

The Workplace redesign:

- Anchors content to the left of Workplace with a more visible navigation bar.
- Moves the Home, Notifications and Chat tabs to the left of Workplace.
- Turns Notifications into a separate tab, allowing you to check your notifications with a preview of the post and other group content in the same view. Notifications can be filtered by Unread, Tags and Replies, and From Pinned Groups.
- Moves the Explore feature to the Home tab, bringing shortcuts including News Feed, Groups and People into one column.
- (For admins on Workplace Premium): Moves the Admin Panel to the left of Workplace.
- Introduces QuickChat, allowing you to message people straight from their Home page. You can start a QuickChat by finding the name of the person under People, clicking  and then clicking Open QuickChat.
- Gives you more control over your notifications by allowing you to turn QuickChat notifications on or off. To do this, minimize the QuickChat menu, then hover over Chats and click Do not disturb or Turn off pop-ups.

- Creates a unified group experience, in which the group and chat features on Project & Teams groups are centralized. Project & Teams groups will feature a Posts tab and a Chattab, bringing the conversation into one place.
- Gives you the ability to collapse the navigation bar and the right side of your Workplace screen, allowing you to browse or work while on focus mode.
- Retains familiarity with Facebook, while reinforcing the “work” aspect of Workplace.

When will the changes take full effect?

- Admins on Workplace Premium were granted access to the new experience on April 30; they'll be able to switch between the classic view and the new Workplace experience until early August.
- Users will get access to the new experience on June 5; they'll be able to switch between the classic view and the new Workplace experience until early August.

Keep in mind that from early August, all admins and users will be migrated to the new Workplace experience; they'll no longer be able to switch back to the classic view.
